

Mary E. O'Dowd leads and supports multi-disciplinary population health-related programs and research projects for Rutgers Health. She develops partnerships with health care and public health partners at the state, local, and community level. She serves on the board of directors for University Hospital in Newark, as the designee of the President of Rutgers University and is a member of several advisory boards. Prior to joining Rutgers, she served as the commissioner for the New Jersey Department of Health and led the Department's response and recovery efforts during unprecedented events including: Hurricane Irene, Superstorm Sandy, Superbowl XLVIII and the West African Ebola epidemic. She is co-editor of the book Junctures in Women's Leadership: Health Care and Public Health.